THE PROJECT

The StereoSciFi – Stereotypes and Hard Science Fiction is an Erasmus+ project co-financed by the European Commission. It runs from December 2017 to November 2019. The main aim is to help students understand stereotypes and prevent discrimination. This is done based on (hard and soft) science fiction books and films.

The results are three, and the one you are reading is one of the pack:

- StereoSciFi Catalogue, presenting 12 books and 12 films of science fiction which can be used to work social stereotypes
- StereoSciFi Activities Suitcase, containing minimum 3 activities per book / film, from a selection of 4 books and 4 films included in the StereoSciFi Catalogue. The activities are to be performed by the students, and are of different types and request different actions from students
- StereoSciFi Teachers Guide, including guidance and tips in using the StereoSciFi Catalogue and Activities Suitcase, and suggestions to work with students the stereotypes and discrimination

INTRODUCTION

The link between Hard Science Fiction and Stereotypes, namely social stereotypes, is the main focus of the StereoSciFi project. Discrimination and even violence based on stereotypes is a current topic present in our daily life, and in the news. It is also a big concern in Europe, which values the social inclusion and equal treatment of all. Using something that is considered recreational, as science fiction books and films, can be an excellent way to introduce and discuss the stereotypes and discrimination thematic to youngsters in an innovative and appealing way.

We expect great impact in the school environment, both in teachers and students. Discrimination and stereotypes is a thematic that can be addressed in schools in many different subjects, and in extra-curricular activities. It can also be useful to stop and prevent segregation and bullying. Having a catalogue with the indication of the stereotypes that can be worked on from a science fiction film or book can be very appealing to youngsters, and could prove to be an extremely valuable tool. Therefore, we expect that the catalogue will be used successfully in schools: it is useful, informative, and very easy to access since it is available in many languages and free to download from the StereoSciFi website. Even though the catalogue was created to be used in schools, it can easily be transferred to be used with adults. Science fiction is greatly appealing to youngsters, but there are also adults who are attracted to this genre, as we can see by the amount of people attending big science fiction blockbusters.

AIDLEARN & OTXARKOAGA researched and defined a list of 100 movies to consider for the catalogue. The 100 movies were then placed into a discrimination grid-table that indicated the level of Science Fiction they presented as well as what type of stereotypes could be found in them. After the discrimination of these aspects of all 100 movies, the number was reduced to 25 according to what AIDLEARN & OTXARKOAGA considered were the more adequate movies for the project. These 25 movies were then presented to the whole partnership in a grid-table so that each partner would score the movies, on the “Level of rooting in real science”, the “Recommended age of viewers”, the “Level of attractiveness for the young viewers”, and the “Content of stereotypes”. After each partner had scored the 25 movies, all the scores were compared by AIDLEARN and the 12 movies with higher global scores were selected for the catalogue.

UNIVERSITY OF LODZ & TELŠIŲ ŠVIETIMO CENTRAS researched and defined a list of books to consider for the catalogue. The books were then placed into a discrimination grid-table that indicated the level of Science Fiction they presented as well as what type of stereotypes could be found in them. After the discrimination of these aspects of the books, the number was reduced to 25 according to what UNIVERSITY OF LODZ & TELŠIŲ ŠVIETIMO CENTRAS considered were the more adequate books for the project. These 25 books were then presented to the whole partnership in a grid-table so that each partner would score the books, on the “Level of rooting in real science”, the “Recommended age of readers”, the “Level of attractiveness for the young readers”, and the “Content of stereotypes”. After each partner had scored the 25 books, all the scores were compared by AIDLEARN and the 12 books with higher global scores were selected for the catalogue.

This Catalogue, thus includes 12 feature length films and 12 books on hard science fiction. These films and books us either established or carefully extrapolated science as its backbone and relate it to social sciences, portraying social stereotypes and different social ways that a society can be organized.

Each film and book is presented with identification; story; stereotypes portrayed; link to some other information considered relevant by the partnership and the official trailer for the films

FILM 01 – THE STEPFORD WIVES

Basic data	Information
Title	The Stepford Wives
Director	Frank Oz
Year	2004
Genre	Comedy, Horror, Sci-Fi
Short description of the story	Joanna Eberhart, a wildly successful president of a TV Network, after a series of shocking events, suffers a nervous breakdown and is moved by her milquetoast of a husband, Walter, from Manhattan to the chic, upper-class, and very modern planned community of Stepford, Connecticut. Once there, she makes good friends with the acerbic Bobbie Markowitz, a Jewish writer who's also a recovering alcoholic. Together they find out, much to their growing stupor and then horror, that all the housewives in town are strangely blissful and, somehow... doomed. What is going on behind the closed doors of the Stepford Men's Association and the Stepford Day Spa? Why is everything perfect here? Will it be too late for Joanna and Bobbie when they finally find out?

BOOK 01 - BEGGARS IN SPAIN

Basic data	Information
Title	Beggars in Spain (Sleepless #1)
Author	Nancy Kress
Year	first published February 1993
Literary genre	Sci-Fi
Short description of the story	In the year 2008, thanks to a stunning scientific breakthrough, Chicago millionaire Roger Camden and his wife Elizabeth produce the perfect child—a genetically modified daughter, Leisha, who is beautiful, extraordinarily intelligent...and who will never require sleep. She is one of the first twenty so-called “Sleepless” in a world that will initially treat them as interesting anomalies...and, later, as objects of envy and scorn. As the decades pass, the Sleepless population increases and prospers—and Leisha grows to become one of the ablest legal minds in America. But the heightened abilities and a shattered revelation about the near-immortality of “her kind” has inflamed the wrath of the nation’s Sleeper majority—spawning political repression and shocking mob violence that drives the Sleepless en masse from a society that rejects them...and, ultimately, from the Earth itself. But Leisha Camden remains behind—outcast from both worlds, yet unwilling to forfeit her rightful place in the community of man. Meanwhile, aboard an orbiting colony called Sanctuary, a new generation of genetically engineered super-children is born—the foundation of a brilliant and bitter Sleepless leader’s conspiracy of freedom...and revenge.

BOOK 09 - THE TIME MACHINE

Basic data	Information
Title	The Time Machine
Author	H.G. Wells
Year and Publisher	first published May 7th 1895
Literary genre	Sci-Fi
Short description of the story	“I’ve had a most amazing time....” So begins the Time Traveller’s astonishing first-hand account of his journey 800,000 years beyond his own era—and the story that launched H.G. Wells’s successful career and earned him his reputation as the father of science fiction. With a speculative leap that still fires the imagination, Wells sends his brave explorer to face a future burdened with our greatest hopes...and our darkest fears. A pull of the Time Machine’s lever propels him to the age of a slowly dying Earth. There he discovers two bizarre races—the ethereal Eloi and the subterranean Morlocks—who not only symbolize the duality of human nature, but offer a terrifying portrait of the men of tomorrow as well. Published in 1895, this masterpiece of invention captivated readers on the threshold of a new century. Thanks to Wells’s expert storytelling and provocative insight, The Time Machine will continue to enthrall readers for generations to come.
